TRANSCENDING THE PINK JEWELRY

Ketchum local and cancer "transcender" Edna Benziger presents her "pearls with purpose" with her new collection, "Transcending the Pink Jewelry." The jewelry line is a part of her Transcending the Pink organization, which seeks to help others with cancer through integrative energy medicine. Part of integrative energy medicine is channeling energy, including chakras. This line of jewelry seeks to open the heart chakras using pearl pieces from Beijing, Chinese jade pendants, uniquely designed magnetic and sterling silver and crystal clasps, and Swarovski crystals, which can all connect together and be mixed and matched or custom designed. "Each piece is blessed and has an intention to offer heart healing. I think the timing of releasing this jewelry line is perfect because people are looking for more ways to feel safe, more protected, and more balanced," says Benziger. Proceeds from "Transcending the Pink" collection sales will help to fund Benziger's non-profit organization and pay it forward to help local and global Breastbody Cancer Organizations focused on education and research for Integrative Medicine and Holistic Healing of Mind, Body, and Spirit. Benziger will design custom pieces for other non-profits and their fundraising efforts including auctions and gifts, which she is proposing for Higher Ground Sun Valley and Expedition Inspiration.
